Mackenzie Valley Environmental Impact Review Board Public Hearings

EA1415-01 Canadian Zinc Corporation's Prairie Creek All Season Road Project

April 24, 2017, in Nahanni Butte
April 25-28, 2017, in Fort Simpson

The Review Board is holding public hearings in Nahanni Butte and Fort Simpson for the Prairie Creek All Season Road proposed by Canadian Zinc Corporation. The road, if approved, would enable year round transport of concentrates and fuel supplies along 180 km between Prairie Creek Mine and the Liard Highway. The mine is located in the Southern Mackenzie Mountains in the south-west corner of the Northwest Territories. The project is within the traditional territory of the Dehcho First Nations, and crosses territorial and federal lands. Approximately half the road is within Nahanni National Park Reserve.

Environmental Assessment of the Prairie Creek All Season Road

The Mackenzie Valley Environmental Impact Review Board (Review Board) is an independent administrative tribunal responsible for conducting fair and timely environmental assessments. The environmental assessment process allows the Review Board to decide if a project is likely to cause significant adverse impacts on the environment or significant public concern. The Review Board will make a decision on whether the development is likely to have a significant adverse impact on the environment and the need for mitigative or remedial measures.

For more information about the Review Board and environmental assessment process, please see our website: <http://www.reviewboard.ca/about/>

For more information about the community and technical hearings, please follow this link to the hearing agendas.

Media conduct during the hearings

Media are advised to follow public registry updates on the Review Board's website.

Media personnel are required to sign in to the public hearings and advise Review Board staff of their attendance, as staff must announce the media's presence to the participants in the room.

The Review Board respectfully requests that all media personnel please observe the following courtesies:

- Please do not set up your equipment too close to the front of the hearing venue. This could distract Board Members, staff and other hearing participants from their work.
- Please do not take the front seats for the audience if it appears there are many elders present who may want to sit up close.
- Please do not sit at the reserved tables set up for registered groups who will be presenting to the Review Board.

Typically, the Review Board does not set up special tables for media personnel unless there is a request in advance of the meeting. The resources available to the Review Board to assist the media are limited, so be prepared to bring all of your own equipment and power supplies.

Review Board staff are not available for interviews during the public hearings. Therefore, please call the Review Board office to arrange for an interview, which will likely occur a few days after the hearing has ended. Please request your interview far enough in advance to allow Review Board staff to coordinate their availability with your deadline.

Interview guidelines

Because of the quasi-judicial nature of the Review Board, there are certain limitations to what the Chairperson, Board Members and staff can speak about. For this ongoing environmental assessment, you will only be able to interview Review Board staff. The staff member designated as the spokesperson for a particular file will comment on the process only. The Chairperson and Board Members are not permitted to comment on ongoing matters before the Board.

Review Board decisions, submissions made by other parties or any other evidence speaks for itself. The staff cannot provide interpretation or explanations of any information that is on the public record. All the evidence is available on the public registry for the Prairie Creek All Season Road. You are encouraged to speak to the individuals or groups that are participating in the hearings and get their views on the project. If you would like to gain a better understanding of a particular piece of information on the public record, please contact the groups, individuals or outside expert who submitted the document.

Finding background information and other interview sources

In addition the sources linked in this document, media may contact the developer of the project under review and visit its website to learn specific details about the development. The developer is the best source to describe its own project. Review Board staff are only able to provide a cursory overview of the project. Review Board staff will not describe the project for you in an interview.
