Louie, I don't see any real problem with this as long as Gartner Lee are there as facilitators/analysts and they are neither advocating any outcome nor providing evidence of their own. I really see them as an extension of staff in their capacity at the workshops. The same question could be asked about you or Vern and I would give the same answer.

There will be no Board members there and the workshops are "without prjudice" so as long as GLL focus on helping others get to an answer and not on giving it themselves we should be ok.

John, in your opinion, is it acceptable for GLL and the team to participate in the technical sessions and the to help prepare the Board's Report of EA.
