

5.0 PUBLIC CONSULTATION

5.1 COMMUNITIES

Avalon supports and practices the core business value that effective and meaningful communication contributes to the development of sound corporate and community relationships. Throughout the baseline data collection, continuous efforts have been made to keep the public, affected First Nations and regulators informed of the Project and its development activities

5.2 REGULATORY AGENCIES

Meetings and correspondence with the Department of Indian and Northern Affairs (INAC) and the Mackenzie Valley Land and Water Board (MVLWB) were initiated by Avalon in 2005, and continued throughout the baseline data collection period. The engagement provided Avalon the opportunity to share information, coordinate activities and develop relationships in the proposed TLP area. Communications with regulatory agencies are planned to continue throughout the permitting process and the Project's life.

5.3 OTHER STAKEHOLDERS

The Thor Lake Property is situated in the Akaitcho Territory and is subject to a comprehensive land claim negotiation between the Akaitcho Dene First Nations (Yellowknives Dene First Nation (Dettah), Yellowknives Dene First Nation (N'Dilo), Lutsel K'e Dene First Nation, and Deninu Ku'e First Nation) and Canada's federal government. An interim measures agreement is currently in place and includes a land withdrawal that was implemented in 2007. The land withdrawal precludes new mineral title from being granted by the Crown in the Akaitcho Territory for a period of up to five years while a land-use planning process is completed. The rights of existing mineral rights holders in this area are unaffected and Avalon is actively consulting with the four nearest Akaitcho Dene communities. Avalon's intent is to implement a co-operative development approach for the TLP.

To this end, continuous and concerted efforts were made to engage affected First Nations throughout the baseline studies and TLP planning. Efforts included ongoing meetings and correspondence with the TLP area First Nations listed below in Table 5.3-1. To date, all issues have been dealt with in a mutually agreeable fashion and have not restricted the Project's design phase. A complete log of Avalon's Aboriginal and community engagement activities is presented in Tables 5.3-2 and 5.3-3, in addition, Avalon's Traditional Knowledge Study Communication/Consultation Logs are provided in Appendix H.
